Fun facts about Bingo

Did you know that playing bingo can keep your brain in trim? According to Southampton University, bingo players are more mentally agile than non-bingo players. It is also suggested that social activities, such as playing bingo, is just as good for your health as doing physical exercise.

People of all ages play bingo but it has the reputation of being an older person's game. The majority of players who participate in the game are, in fact, below 35 years of age.
